[Chicago Tribune.]

[illegible] every day [illegible] peaches [illegible] Randolph [illegible] Mrs Sanders [illegible] the boarding house on the hill. There were five [illegible] in Port Caradoc [illegible] great white hotel on the [illegible] and Mrs Sanders was the best [illegible] Port Caradoc [illegible] of September Mrs Sanders [illegible] Every one knows [illegible] Mrs Sanders knew [illegible] helped [illegible] old berry patch.

[illegible] a tall well made young fellow with a [illegible] dark hair and clear dark gray eyes, rather a stern mouth and habitually a somewhat grave expression. He tied his horse, a handsome little bay, at the gate that evening and came up the gravelled path to the house with a peach basket [illegible] He had been a frightfully busy day [illegible] boarders were sitting [illegible] veranda [illegible] rocking back and forward in the big [illegible] rocking chairs. They were nearly all ladies and children belonging to Oshawa, the big bustling city across the lake, whose husbands and fathers unable to leave business for longer contented themselves with running across to Port Caradoc by the Saturday evening steamer (it was only a three hours trip) and returning to Oshawa on the Monday morning.

Mrs Sanders came bustling out of the house to meet Randolph.

"Why you've bin and brought the peaches yourself, Mr Randolph," she exclaimed. "Well I'm powerful glad to see you. Do step into the house now we've just got through supper and I guess it's all cleared away, but I've got some very nice raspberry vinegar and Sarah shall fetch you some ice for it. You look downright wilted up and not much wonder neither, it's bin powerful hot to-day." Then with a confidential dropping of her voice to a lower key, "You're just the person I wanted to speak to. Step around to the back stoop a minute, there ain't no saying a word here with all these blessed children round. You see," she continued, as she rounded the corner of the house, "I've got some new boarders as came over last week from Oshawa—real elegant folks—and I'd do anything to please Mrs Drayton—that's her name—she's a real sweet little thing—and as I was goin' to say, she's set her heart on the children learnin to ride—there's three of them, two girls and a boy—and they're all just wild about it. They don't give their ma nor that pretty little governess of theirs no peace from morning till night. So Mrs Drayton says to me, says she, couldn't you find me a reliable person, Miss Sanders, as has a quiet horse and will spare a little time every day to learn the children some. She says as they wouldn't learn no harm from [illegible] I told her no I didn't know of [illegible] they was all sold up. Well then Mr Randolph, as I was thinkin about them peaches this morning it just seemed to pop into my head I'd ask you about it. I know you've got a nice quiet pony, [illegible] busy season with you just now [illegible] nice little children an' their [illegible] awful blessed [illegible] sakes alive [illegible] Mr Randolph, I say you'll [illegible]"

And so Mr Sanders rattled on till [illegible] triumphantly [illegible] a pretty little dark [illegible] children [illegible] Miss Howard [illegible] and then Miss Howard herself was called and appeared suddenly at the corner of the veranda. Randolph never forgot that first sight of her—a slight girlish figure in a white gown clearly outlined against the background of green creeper which screened one end of the veranda. A few last red rays from the setting sun streamed through the leaves in the network of leaves and lighted up her brown hair and [illegible] gentle eyes. It seemed to him [illegible] that he knew her—that he had always known her, every feature [illegible] words seemed strangely familiar to him. He was [illegible] All that evening, driving home [illegible] only [illegible] in white [illegible]

The next morning dawned [illegible] and [illegible] spirit of [illegible] the gravelled path and [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the children's ringing laughter and watching the graceful figure which accompanied them as it disappeared around the bend of the road. Disappeared? Yes, but [illegible] again on the morrow and on many morrows after that—nearly every day of that happy [illegible] summer till the [illegible] old story was once more repeated, and Mary Howard's sweet face and gentle presence grew to be as necessary to Randolph's happiness and peace as the very breath he drew. And one day he told her so, one day in the early autumn when heavy clouds hung over the lake, and the wind sighed through the sombre pines and red tinted maples as if with a foreboding of the long winter to come. And she [illegible] took his sun burned hand and kissed it, and laid her head trustingly on his broad shoulder and told him she loved him dearly—better than life.

They were to be married the next spring from Mrs Sanders—the 6th of June was the day fixed for the wedding. Mary Howard, who had spent the winter in Oshawa with the Draytons, her only friends, was to come with them to Port Caradoc June 1. Randolph had spent much of his time through the winter and spring in fitting up the old house and making it as bright and comfortable as might be for his bride. Many were the tender thoughts and fancies which filled his mind as he worked in the long winter evenings at the pretty carved book cases which were to hold the books she was so fond of, or later in the spring as he made various journeys to Cripsville, the nearest inland town, where he purchased so many dainty knick knacks that Keziah declared Randolph had "gone mad on fixins." For the 25th of May Randolph had planned the last of these journeys, and the morning of that day he left Port Caradoc by an early train for Cripsville. It was a close sultry morning, there seemed scarcely a breath of air, the lake was ominously still—not a ripple stirred its surface, heavy threatening clouds hung over the horizon. Keziah entreated him not to go. She said she felt "kind o' skeered." But Randolph only laughed, and promised to send up a woman from the village to keep her company. His heart was so full of happiness it had no room for forebodings. He reached Cripsville about 10 o'clock. At noon a storm of thunder and lightning broke over the city. Hailstones as large as pigeons' eggs fell, mashing every unprotected pane of glass. The wind shrieked and howled through the streets rooting up trees and smashing telegraph poles like twigs. Houses were blown down, men and horses killed. It was that terrible storm of May, 187[illegible].

Randolph made his way to the station with difficulty about 5 o'clock only to find that no trains were running to Port Caradoc. A portion of the railway had been torn up by the storm and it would take at least twenty four hours to repair the damage done. He returned to the town, where he wandered about rather aimlessly for an hour or two and then went to the hotel intending to spend the night there and resolved to hire a horse and drive home, a distance of some thirty miles—the next morning. He was possessed by a strange uneasy feeling and felt half inclined to start for home that night, but hearing that it would be dangerous, perhaps impossible, and having indeed no urgent cause for haste, he abandoned the idea. About 9 o'clock rumors reached the hotel of disaster on the lake. Some said that the Oshawa steamer had been wrecked at Port Caradoc and all hands lost, others that she had been struck by lightning, others again that she had been driven out of her course and had gone to pieces on the sandbar, but that most of the passengers and crew were saved. Randolph decided to start at once for home. He managed to secure a horse and light buggy and by midnight was on his way. The storm had by this time subsided—through a rent in the clouds overhead a few stars shone brightly [illegible] road [illegible] dark and gloomy [illegible] the fallen trees [illegible] blocked the way [illegible] What [illegible] awful [illegible] probability [illegible] He urged on his horse and strove to occupy himself with other thoughts. The dawn began to break [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Now drawing [illegible] friends [illegible] Instead they turned to each other with looks of horror [illegible] a young farmer who had been for years his greatest friend in the place turned and walked quickly away. Randolph stopped—his heart gave one great throb and then seemed to grow still. Was it true? Had this strange, dreadful presentiment of evil been only a forewarning of the truth? Then a great calm came over him. He walked on. "What is it friends," he said quietly. No one answered [illegible] old man attempted to speak but the words died away in his throat. Keziah came down the path. "The Lord's hand is heavy upon you, Randolph," she said solemnly. He pushed her gently aside and entered the house. The door of the front room was closed. He opened it and the bright cruel sunlight streamed into the darkened room. Streamed in upon the book cases, on the wall, the new piano in the corner, the sofa covered with bright blue—he had covered it himself. But not for this. He had thought how she would rest there in the evening, how he would sit beside her, perhaps with children playing at their feet, but he had never thought of this—oh God, never of this. He needed not to draw the covering from the fair pale face to know that it was her form lying so quietly there—needed not to press his burning hands upon her brow, upon her heart, to know that hope was fled. He scarcely listened when they told him how it happened, why she had come a week earlier, how she had struggled at the end for life. At first he knelt there piteously stroking her cold hands and moaning like some dumb animal in pain, and then he raved and cursed his health and strength, and prayed for death.

But death comes not for the asking, and he lived.

Saved by a Joke.

[Boston Globe.]

In one of the battles of the late war Col Robert G Ingersoll was ordered to advance with his regiment upon a squad of Confederates that was hidden in a grove on the right of the line. After a short contest his command broke and fled in disorder, so that when the smoke lifted he found himself surrounded by fifteen or twenty gray coats, with muskets at their shoulders in attitudes ready to fire. Taking in his peril at a glance he waved his hand to them to desist and said:

"I have been thinking over the condition of affairs for the past second and a half very seriously, and gentlemen, I have come to the conclusion that I shall acknowledge the southern Confederacy."

He beamed upon them with his sunniest smile and while they stood dumbfounded at his cool presence of mind he adroitly wheeled around and putting spurs to his horse was out of gunshot before they recovered from their amazement. Ever after this he was known as the Yankee colonel who saved his life by a joke.

Geographical Item.

[Texas Siftings.]

"Your trip to Italy must have been very pleasant," said one of the most intelligent young ladies of Austin to Sump on who had just returned from a foreign strand.

"Very interesting indeed," answered he.

"Now tell me," said she, "does Italy really look like a boot? You know that's the way it looks on the map."

As small and easy to take as a Homeopathic Pillet. We mean Shedd's Little Mandrake Pills.

Blaine's Letter

We have published from time to time, portions of Blaine's letter of acceptance. The following, wherein he treats of the Mormon question, the sacredness of the ballot &c closes this wonderful political production.

THE MORMON QUESTION

Religious liberty is the right of every citizen of the republic. Congress is forbidden by the constitution to make any law "respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." For a century under this guarantee Protestant and Catholic, Jew and Gentile have worshiped God according to the dictates of conscience. But religious liberty must not be perverted to the justification of offenses against the law. A religious sect, strongly intrenched in one of the territories of the union and spreading rapidly into four other territories, claims the right to destroy the great safeguard and muniment of social order and to practice as a religious privilege that which is a crime punished with severe penalty in every state of the union. The sacredness and unity of the family must be preserved as the foundation of all civil government, as the source of orderly administration, as the surest guarantee of moral purity.

The claim of the Mormons that they are divinely authorized to practice polygamy should no more be admitted than the claim of certain heathen tribes, if they should come among us, to continue the right of human sacrifice. The law does not interfere with what a man believes; it takes cognizance only of what he does. As citizens the Mormons are entitled to the same civil rights as others and so they must be confined. Polygamy can never receive national sanction or toleration by admitting the community that upholds it as a state in the union. Like others the Mormons must learn that the liberty of the individual ceases where the rights of society begin.

OUR CURRENCY

The people of the United States though often urged and tempted have never seriously contemplated the recognition of any other money than gold and silver—and currency directly convertible into them. They have not done so, they will not do so under any necessity less pressing than that of desperate war. The one special requisite for the completion of our monetary system is the fixing of the relative value of silver and gold. The large use of silver as the money of account among Asiatic nations taken in connection with the increasing commerce of the world gives the weightiest reasons for an international agreement in the premises. Our government should not cease to urge this measure until a common standard of value shall be reached and established—a standard that shall enable the United States to use the silver from its mines as an auxiliary to gold in settling the balances of commercial exchange.

THE PUBLIC LANDS

The strength of the republic is increased by the multiplication of land holders. Our laws should look to the judicious encouragement of actual settlers on the public domain, which should henceforth be held as a sacred trust for the benefit of those seeking homes. The tendency to consolidate large tracts of land in the ownership of individuals or corporations should, with proper regard to vested rights, be discouraged. One hundred thousand acres of land in the hands of one man is far less profitable to the nation in every way than when its ownership is divided among one thousand men. The evil of permitting large tracts of the national domain to be consolidated and controlled by the few against the many is enhanced when the persons controlling it are aliens. It is but fair that the public land should be disposed of only to actual settlers and to those who are citizens of the republic or willing to become so.

OUR SHIPPING INTERESTS

Among our national interests one languishes—the foreign carrying trade. It was very seriously crippled in our civil war and another blow was given to it in the general substitution of steam for sail in ocean traffic. With a frontage on the two great oceans, with a freightage larger than that of any other nation, we have every inducement to restore our navigation. Yet the government has hitherto refused its help. A small share of the encouragement given by the government to railways and to manufacturers and a small share of the capital and the zeal given by our citizens to those enterprises would have carried our ships to every sea and to every port. A law just enacted removes some of the burdens upon our navigation and inspires hope that this great interest may at last receive its due share of attention. All efforts in this direction should receive encouragement.

SACREDNESS OF THE BALLOT

This survey of our condition as a nation reminds us that the material prosperity is but a mockery if it does not tend to preserve the liberty of the people. A free ballot is the safeguard of republican institutions, without which no national welfare is assured. A popular election, honestly conducted, embodies the very majesty of true government. Ten millions of voters desire to take part in the pending contest. The safety of the republic rests upon the integrity of the ballot, upon the security of suffrage to the citizen. To deposit a fraudulent vote is no worse a crime against the constitutional liberty than to obstruct the deposit of an honest vote. He who corrupts suffrage strikes at the very root of free government. He is the arch enemy of the republic. He forgets that in trampling upon the rights of others he fatally imperils his own rights. "It is a good land which the Lord our God doth give us," but we can maintain our heritage only by guarding with vigilance the source of popular power. I am with great respect your obedient servant

JAMES G. BLAINE

"Protection and Free Trade To-Day."

James R Osgood & Co., of Boston publish in neat and convenient form, the address of Robert P Porter to the Arkwright club of New England, on "protection and free trade to-day." Mr Porter graphically presents exactly what voters in both political parties want to know—the facts showing how free trade and protection works at home and abroad, in the field and the workshop. He shows how agriculture, commerce and manufacturing in the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Holland have been affected by these two economic policies. Mr Porter's work will be appreciated by business men, farmers and artisans who have no time to read a volume on the subject, but who want a clear exposition of the condition of labor here and in European countries.

He takes decided protective ground but makes a fair use of the official figures, which are, at times, handled with dramatic effect. Few are better equipped, by training, to discuss this question than Mr Porter. For several years a student of the industrial progress of the west and author of one of the most useful works on that section, for three years in charge of an important division of the census, next a member of the tariff commission, and then sent abroad for eighteen months, by the New York Tribune, to investigate the condition of labor in Great Britain and the Continent. The words of the author of the address on the tariff will carry weight with those anxious for a practical view of the tariff question. Price 10 cents.

Well, he is certainly going to knock out the democratic party on the fourth day of November next, so postponement on account of weather.

READING HUMAN LIPS.

The Wonderful Skill in Lip-Reading Shown by Two Deaf Girls.

[New York Herald.]

The convention of teachers of the deaf and dumb was resumed yesterday at the New York institution, Lexington avenue and East Sixty-seventh street. At the morning and afternoon sessions a number of papers were read on lip reading and methods of instruction for the deaf and dumb. A resolution was passed on motion of the Rev Frederick H Wines that the attention of wealthy and benevolent persons be called to the fact that the improvement of the condition of the deaf and dumb would be materially furthered by the establishment of a school for instructing teachers in articulation.

At the evening session a paper was read by Miss Fletcher of Boston on "Newspaper Reading." In this paper Miss Fletcher set forth that she had found it an excellent idea to allow the pupils to ask questions concerning what they had read. Mr Greenberger of the New York institution described the case of a pupil who slept with a servant girl. The two were heard talking together in the night. As there was no light in the room it was evident that the conversation was not carried on through the medium of lip-reading. Inquiry was made, and it was discovered that the pupil was in the habit of putting one hand upon the girl's chest and the other upon her throat and ascertaining by the vibrations of sound the words she uttered. Some interesting exhibitions of the wonderful aptness of deaf mutes followed. A pupil of the New York institution, a comely girl of 16 years, was called to the platform. Although deaf to the loudest noises she readily understood by watching the motions of the lips whatever was said to her. Mr Greenberger addressed her with his face turned full toward then with his face sideways, and next from a distance of some fifty [illegible] yards away. She was enabled in each instance to understand the words which were uttered in the ordinary conversational way both as to rapidity and pitch.

He subsequently read passages from Roman history which she repeated after him with accuracy. Even when the unusual and difficult remark "Omnis the [illegible] saw state," was addressed to her she readily deciphered the words. A girl of 15 years, a pupil of Miss Fuller of the Horace Mann school, of Boston, displayed similar proficiency in lip reading, and the two pupils next held an animated conversation with each other utterly oblivious of loud noises which were made behind their backs to illustrate their utter lack of hearing. A notable feature of the voices of the pupils was that they both had a peculiar languishing wailing tone. The teachers state that they expect to conquer even this peculiarity in time.

The Peruvians' Coca.

[Globe Democrat]

The coca is a peculiarly American plant and is used only in South America. It is a bush about six feet high and is cultivated almost to the tops of the Andes, the leaf only being used. The plant was in high favor among the Peruvians when the country was conquered by the Spaniards and though the latter adopted every means to stop the practice of chewing the leaves their efforts were unsuccessful. When a Peruvian is ready to take his coca he stops work, seats himself or leans against [illegible] and gives himself up to chewing the leaves with a little lime. So well known is the practice and so acknowledged is the necessity of the custom that the owners of mines and others who employ Indians set apart half an hour three or four times a day for the chewing process, and no Indian will work for men who refuse this privilege.

Like some other narcotics it seems to enable the user to resist fatigue and so highly is it esteemed that it was formerly employed in religious ceremonies and many superstitious rites are still connected with the use of it. Miners will throw it on the stone [illegible] then the [illegible] it is sacred to the [illegible] and to injure a man with whom you have chewed coca is considered most detestable. The abuse of it is not frequent, but when it is abused at all the consequences are said to be very similar to those which follow from the excessive use of opium. It does not satisfy the appetite but in moderate use is said to increase it and the Peruvians, when ill, use it as an appetizer.

A German's Reply to Schurz

In a letter to the New York Tribune in reply to Carl Schurz's Brooklyn speech Mr John Ruhm, a prominent German citizen of Nashville says:

As to the present presidential campaign, as I said before, I see it stated in democratic papers that the Germans all over the country are solid against Blaine and will not support him. These statements are sought to be strengthened by the fact that Mr Schurz has concluded to oppose Blaine and support Cleveland and that he has made a speech. Now I wish to say that I am in correspondence with a large number of German Americans all over the union belonging to both political parties. I have been a close observer of the political history of the country for twenty years and more. In presidential elections I have always taken an active part, not as a professional politician, but as a private citizen—considering it my duty to contribute my work and my voice in the selection of those who are called upon to direct the destinies of this republic. I read a goodly number of the German American papers. I meet quite a number of German Americans every day and converse with them on the questions of the day. I go to political meetings where I see German Americans. I state all these facts to show that I know whereof I speak, and now I make this assertion: I know of my own personal knowledge of not a single German republican except Mr Schurz who refuses to support Mr Blaine, on the other hand I know of a considerable number of German democrats who say they will vote with the republicans this time. I further state that the Germans of my personal acquaintance are more enthusiastic in politics this year than I have seen them since the first Grant campaign. There seems to be a feeling among them that the time has come once more when the people can with better grace take an interest in the politics of the country, when tricksters, and schemers and wirepullers must stand aside. They seem to think that the time has passed away when bosses and officeholders have the exclusive right to dictate the policy of the party and they cheerfully lend their aid in invigorating the campaign with the refreshing influence of patriotic enthusiasm.

AN international electrical exhibition is being held in Franklin Institute, Philadelphia. It will close on the 11th of October. There is being presented at the exhibition a full and varied display of all the applications of electricity in their latest and most complete forms. It must prove of great interest to all who are interested in the promotion of science.

LAST WINTER I found positive relief from Catarrh with Ely's Cream Balm. Was troubled for years. I have no doubt a thorough use of Cream Balm will cure a great majority of cases. E. D. Norton, Ithica, N. Y. (Price 50cts.)

THE NEW YORK Evangelist of the current week speaks as follows of the case against Grover Cleveland, as admited by his defenders. Putting these five reports together, and excluding all charges of continued immorality as unproved, confining ourselves to the one solitary fact, which not even the Governor's nearest and dearest friend presumes to deny, what then? To repeat the question asked by the Evening Post, at the head of a long and labored article in his defense: What do we think of it now? We answer that we think it is very bad business. In saying this, we do not judge it by the highest moral standards, but by the standards of common decency and common humanity, of that respect which manhood owes to womanhood, which strength owes to weakness—to be its protector and not its destroyer. Disguise it as you will, gloss it over or call it by other names, it is a sickening story which we cannot read without a feeling of horror and disgust.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette says that Long Branch is just now as full of curiosities as a dime museum. There is a young woman who proudly poses as the possessor of fourteen dozen pairs of silk stockings—striped, checked, crossed, clocked, and adorned with gorgeous insects, birds, and snakes. Some of them cost $50 a pair, and it is said that she has never worn the same pair twice since she has been there. Another young woman has forty parasols. They are of all colors and many of them covered with costly lace. The handles end in the most bizarre designs—heathen idols, crocodiles, colored babies, birds and monkeys. Some of these gorgeous trappings cost from $200 to $300 each. A bright eyed brunet has fourteen pairs of shoes and sixty pairs of slippers. She has breakfast, lunch, dinner and tea slippers, not to mention slippers for the piazza and slippers for the ball room. They vary in color from fiery red to humble gray.

ONE of the most curious incidents in the history of African slavery in America is the life of Charles Stewart, a slave owned by the Johnsons of Virginia, and afterwards by the Porters of Louisiana, both of them noted as possessors of remarkable racing horses. He was a born trainer and rider of horses, and during his lifetime has ridden the winning horse at many of the great races down south. He could not write and knew nothing about figures but was nevertheless trusted by his owners with the care and transportation of their stock, and the custody of bets and stakes and he seems always to come out right. One of the ladies of the Porter family recently took down the story of his life as told by himself and it will be given in his own negro dialect, in the October Harper's, with a portrait of the old hero of the turf.

THE REV HENRY WARD BEECHER is an elegant talker and has sometimes elicited by the brilliancy of his epigrams applause in his church like unto that greeting a negro minstrel show, but he is curiously at war with his precepts. That is to say, he often says things that are not in consonance with his practice. He claims to be cleanly in his habits and elevated in his tastes. In 1880 he said, "the democratic party is so corrupt that a decent man would sooner be found in bed with a rotten dead man than with that party." In 1884 he crawls into bed and bundles up comfortably with that same corrupt party. Has he lost his taste or refined it to such a degree that he can enjoy the flavor of carrion? Perhaps the character of M. Cleveland being in affinity with his own, will account for this new love.

A. L. MORRISON, chairman of the republican national Irish league, said to a New York reporter Thursday: "I see positive proofs of the friendly feeling of the workingmen for Blaine every day. It is real and cannot be disguised or mistaken. Last night I addressed a ward meeting. In the club were sixty four Irish democrats who will vote for Blaine, and twenty five more joined the club. All of these men have been democrats and I do not think one of them ever voted for a republican. They are determined to do what they can for Blaine." Mr Morrison himself a thoroughbred and gifted Irishman, is certainly competent to testify as to the temper of Irish Americans in the pending campaign.—Buffalo Telegraph.

THE venerable and universally esteemed ex President Woolsey, of Yale, much to the chagrin of the alleged independent republicans who are washing Cleveland's dirty linen, all reports to the contrary, will stand for elector on the Blaine and Logan ticket, and vote it if he lives until election day, and says he does not see how any good citizens can vote for Cleveland. "It so happens," says an exchange, "that Dr Woolsey combines the highest type of religious character with the ripest and most varied scholarship, and with a knowledge of statesmanship that has made him the trusted adviser of more than one president."—Buffalo Telegraph.

SENATOR MORRILL of Vermont, who accompanied Mr. Blaine to Europe in 1867, says that on that trip Mr Blaine told him how the bulk of his fortune was made. He had purchased a tract of coal lands in West Virginia for 40,000, paying a part of that sum down, and the balance soon after from the profits of the mines. These mines, Mr. Blaine said, were then paying him annually an amount equal to the interest on $200,000 and they have increased in value since.

THESE facts show that the independent press are generally Pharisees, and while prating about scandals of their own creating, are irredeemably licentious. They boast of their independance, when, in fact, they are sycophants, and the bitterest of all partisans. They scold everything with the volubility of the neighborhood virago, but after all they are the most bitter partisans, who seek to accomplish their purposes under the garb of independence.—Memphis Appeal.

ONE can comprehend the disgust of a straight out democratic organ at the at the conduct of such papers as the New York Times and The Evening Post. But it is rather cruel to lash them so pitilessly just when they are doing their—well, their nastiest—for "Cleveland and reform."—New York Tribune.

The Mulligan letters of which we have heard so much within the past fifteen years and particularly since Mr. Blaine was nominated for the presidency have just been given to the public entire. As Mr. Blaine says there is not a word in the letters which is not entirely consistent with the most scrupulous integrity and honor. He supposes that every republican paper in the United States should publish them in full. They would occupy seven columns of this paper, and as they can have no weight with an intelligent voter in deciding how he should cast his ballot, we must decline to [illegible] to Mr. Blaine's request.

"CONSISTENCY THOU ART A JEWEL."

The prohibitionists declare in the most public manner that their final success is dependent on the overthrow of the republican party. After they have wiped out the latter organization they claim that on its ruins will vegetate and grow the prohibition party until it becomes the great political organization of the country. In order to accomplish this result they have put a full ticket in the field thereby expecting to draw from the republican ranks enough votes to defeat the republican ticket. Supposing they should be successful in this undertaking what would be the result? We will say nothing about the presidential ticket for there is no possibility of the prohibition vote defeating the republican candidate even if it should be [illegible] for Cleveland. It is the effect which this vote will have upon the congressional, senatorial and legislative tickets that we desire to call attention to at this time. Instead of concentrating their efforts upon the candidates who [illegible] of avail in promoting the cause of temperance, the prohibitionists in this county at least have inaugurated a movement which can only result in building up and strengthening the whiskey interest. In their efforts they may destroy the republican organization, but when it goes down under the ruins will be buried beyond resurrection all the hopes and all the possibilities of crushing the rum power in this country.

Whoever represents this Congressional district in the next congress may have an opportunity to vote for or against prohibition in the territories and District of Columbia, or for a prohibition amendment to the constitution of the United States. The next senator will undoubtedly be called upon to vote for or against an amendment to the State constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors, so also will the member of the house, as this question has been before legislature of this State in some form for years past. The other candidates on the county ticket have just as much interest in suppressing the liquor traffic as other citizens.

Now to whose hands do the republicans propose to entrust this question of prohibition in the next congress and in the two houses of the legislature? They have nominated for congress, Hon. W. W. Brown, of this county, a man who has lived all his life of nearly fifty years in this locality. He is known of all men as a sincere, uncompromising advocate of the cause of temperance. In his early manhood he was laboring to compass the great evil while many local advocates of prohibition of to-day were wallowing in the gutter. He is one of the few men in the present congress who are endeavoring to suppress the liquor traffic in the territories, knowing that it has been the cause of the slaughter of more human lives on the frontiers than all other causes combined. Yet this man is not good enough to receive the votes of the prohibitionists, and only because he will not throw away his vote on the demagogue St. John.

For the senate Hon. Lewis Emery, jr., of this county has received the endorsement of two of the three counties of the district and will unquestionably be the republican nominee. The great effort of the prohibitionists of to-day is to have an amendment to the constitution submitted to the people which if adopted will forever prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in this State. Mr. Emery has for the past six years represented this county in the legislature, two years in the house and four years in the senate. During all that time he has not only presented the memorials and petitions of the temperance people with which the legislature has been flooded, but he has earnestly and with all the power he possessed advocated the submission of the prohibition amendment to the people. The writer of this has frequently conversed with senator Emery on this subject, and there is no doubt about the sincerity of his motives in insisting that the people should have the privilege of expressing through the ballot box their wishes on the question of prohibition. Who could do more for the cause of temperance than this? Could a man be sent from this district to the senate who is capable of accomplishing more in securing this legislation than our present senator? And yet there is a gang of half witted prohibitionists in this county who would defeat senator Emery, if possible, because he will not vote for the demagogue St. John.

Robert H. Rose, Esq., is the republican candidate for the lower house. He is a young man whose character for temperance and sobriety stands unimpeached in this community. He has never had any experience in legislative bodies, consequently he has no record to fall back upon, but his education, his instincts, his social and business relations would all lead him to the side of the right. That he will do what he believes to be right and that he will act conscientiously in the discharge of every duty no one doubts who knows him. But because he will not vote for the demagogue St. John the prohibitionists will defeat him if in their power. They will try and throw off enough votes for their candidate from republicans of temperance proclivities to elect the democratic nominee, a man who is just as sure to vote against every proposition the prohibitionists profess to have at heart as the sun is to rise on the morning of the election.

There may be consistency in this prohibition business, but we fail to see it. Enough republicans may be tricked into the support of the prohibition ticket to defeat their own, but we will not believe it until the counting of the votes at the close of the election reveals such a state of things.

The democrats who supposed that the earthquake was simply the sound occasioned by Tilden rolling out his barrel to tap were probably mistaken.—Texas Siftings.

---

The republican convention of Colorado which met a week ago to-day did a good thing in not nominating Tabor for governor. It would have done a better thing to have nominated Judge Hanna of Leadville for congress, but that city is well represented on the ticket in the person of Peter Breen, a prominent Irishman, for lieutenant governor. The ticket will be elected by not less than 5000 majority.

Our democratic friends appear to be somewhat elated over the fact that Tammany has finally decided to support the democratic ticket. It took over two months to reach that conclusion and when the vote was taken whether Tammany would endorse Cleveland over 80 of the braves voted no. During the deliberations Senator Grady made a speech in which he denounced Cleveland in the most bitter terms and declared he could not support him. This speech was received with tumultuous applause. The following is a short extract from it which our democratic friends are not fond of seeing in print: "I shall speak from the record and I will ask to be ostracised from all decent society if I cannot point to corruption stalking straight to the door of the executive mansion and knocking at the door and coming out of the door with all that corruption sought at the expense of the people. If I cannot prove that bribes that were known to fail in the assembly in 1883 were placed [illegible] Mr. Cleveland that if he does not have the money he can get it at any time, if I cannot prove that I am not what I profess to be."

---

A REPORTER of the New York World distorted and misrepresented a conversation he had with Hon. Hamilton Fish at Saratoga the other day on the subject of the presidential canvass. The democratic papers throughout the country at once announced that Mr. Fish would support Cleveland and there is no doubt that they will continue to do so until election day. This compelled Mr. Fish to publish a card in the World a day or two following the reported interview. He says that he told the correspondent that he entertained great respect for Gov. Cleveland, but he also expressly stated that he was not prepared to put the government of the nation in democratic hands. He concludes his card as follows: "And I did not express any censure or criticism on Mr. Blaine's [illegible] in congress and any reference which may have been made to his course in the department of state was restricted to a want of concurrence as to the wisdom or policy of some parts of his administration of that office. Being (as I am represented as saying) out of politics, I did not feel called upon to announce through the public press for whom I may vote, but as without any wish of mine I am thus brought before the public, I must add that I expect to vote for Mr. Blaine."

---

THE car drivers and conductors' association of New York held a large and enthusiastic meeting in that city on Saturday night last. It is not a political organization in any sense, but the action of Gov. Cleveland vetoing the bill which reduced their hours of labor was what brought about the meeting. The resolutions which were unanimously adopted by the meeting set forth that in refusing to sign the bill, Governor Cleveland overlooked the fact that the car drivers and conductors are compelled to work more hours than any other class of men in the various trades throughout the states, deprived of eating at home or even seeing their wives and children either by night or day, are deprived of social intercourse in every respect, subject to disease and sickness by exposure from the winter's cold and summer's torrid heat; that he was unmindful that had the bill become a law they might have been less subject to a life of slavery, misery and toil; that in refusing to sign the bill he has shown himself not in sympathy with the car drivers and conductors throughout the state, but as in many other instances as indicated by his vetoes is in direct antagonism to the welfare and benefit of the working classes and a thorough advocate and upholder of great corporations. For these reasons the meeting denounced Governor Cleveland as totally unfit to act as the chief executive of the great Empire state, both as to mental capacity and his regard for the rights of the masses, and called on all conductors and drivers to aid in securing the election of Blaine and Logan.

ANOTHER democratic lie exposed. Mrs. Morrill denies in an affidavit that she wrote to a committee in Ohio anything derogatory of Mr. Blaine.

DECLINES TO RUN.

The strongest democrat in this district and the man of all others who many republicans, under certain circumstances, would delight in honoring, is Hon. M. F. Elliott of Wellsboro. Up to Friday last it was confidently expected that he would be the democratic candidate for congress in this district. He had received the recommendation of five of the six counties composing the district and his nomination was an assured fact. But Mr. Elliott saw how futile it would be for a democrat to attempt to be elected in this district this fall and on the 5th inst. he sent the following note to the Wellsboro Gazette:

WELLSBORO, PA., Sept. 5, 1884.

FOR THE GAZETTE: It is not ordinarily in good taste to refuse that which has not been offered, yet I think the fact that three of the six [illegible] agreed that I [illegible] me as the [illegible] of the democratic party for congress justifies me in stating through the columns of your paper that I am not and will not be a candidate for that position.

Respectfully, M. F. ELLIOTT.

He would have been re-nominated for congressman at large but he knew it was nonsense for a democrat to think of carrying Pennsylvania this fall, consequently he positively declined the empty honor. He is too bright a man to be caught with chaff.

PUT UP OR SHUT UP.

The largest bet on the election that has been recorded this year to date was made the other day in New Mexico. Mr. N. C. Place, general manager of the Pinos Altos Gold and Silver Mining Company of Las Vegas, and Mr. Charles M. Shannon, principal owner of the Hughes & Shannon Copper Works at Clifton, bet their several properties, each estimated to be worth over half a million dollars, on the result of the election. The necessary papers have been made out and placed in escrow pending the result.

Mr. F. G. Powers, of South Bend, Indiana, writes to the Chicago Daily News saying that he has received the report that Cleveland's friends in Harlem are looking for investments. He accepts their statements as made in good faith and says: "I will bet them $5000 even that Cleveland will not carry his own county of Erie, N. Y.; $5000 even that he will not carry New York state; $5000 to $4000 that he will not be elected, and $5000 even that he will not carry one northern state, unless it is done by fusion with the Butler party. Now, if these gentlemen from Harlem mean business and have so much confidence in the inflated boy of Buffalo, let them show their faith by accepting this proposition, for I mean business."

A writer in the N. Y. Tribune heard two offers made by a republican, both to be taken together, which have yet found no takers. The offers are $100 to $50 that Blaine carries New York state by the largest plurality ever given a presidential candidate except Grant, and $100 to $50 that Cleveland has the smallest plurality ever given a presidential candidate in New York county. This means that Blaine must have a plurality of over 27,412, Tilden's majority in the state, and that Cleveland must have less than Greeley's majority in the county, which was 22,117.

The Harrisburg Telegraph announces another proposition as follows: "An ardent republican of this city, who has opportunities for observation and who keeps posted on the political drift, announces that he is prepared to take the following wagers on the coming election:

One thousand dollars that James G. Blaine will be the next president.

One thousand dollars that James G. Blaine will carry New York.

Five thousand dollars that James G. Blaine will get more majority in Pennsylvania than the combined majorities for Cleveland in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana, California, Nevada and Oregon.

The money is on deposit at the Farmers' Bank and is ready to be put up in each and any one of the above propositions."

Leading Germans for Blaine.

The republican national committee has received a letter from Dr. H. M. Starkloff, of St. Louis, one of the most prominent Germans of the west, a man of high standing and independence, a surgeon in the army during the war, and now for the fourth time president of the North American Turner Band, which has a membership of 172,000. The following is an extract from the letter:

"My professional duties do not allow me any time for other matters, but nevertheless I consider it my duty as a citizen to contribute a modest part toward another victory of the republican party. This victory is necessary for the maintenance of the results of the war, of good government, of protection of American labor, of a sound financial system and of general reform. There is no good to expect from the democratic party, which is not capable of giving the country either progress or a sound administration, while I am convinced that Mr. Blaine's presidency will make a new and brilliant era of national welfare and greatness in the history of our country. I desire no compensation for my services, but tender them willingly to the country whose best interests are at present, as they have been for the last twenty-five years, identical with the republican party."

The committee is also in receipt of a letter offering his services from Judge Lewis Gottschalk, of St. Louis, a former partner of Carl Schurz, a leading German and one of the foremost German orators in the country.

Both of these men will soon take the stump in Wisconsin, and a week or two later will go into Ohio. The committee's advices from St. Louis state that the German element there is largely radically republican, led by the Tribune, an influential German paper, also by the Westliche Post, the paper formerly edited by Carl Schurz.

Not a Third Party Man.

The union lecture bureau recently sent a circular to many leading advocates of temperance asking their voice and aid in support of the union party favoring prohibition. In this circular occurred the following paragraph:

"Are you prepared to give your hearty support, both by voice and vote, to the platform and candidates of the national prohibition party and the union party of Michigan? In explanation of this question I would say the bureau does not require that the speakers should confine themselves to the party side of the prohibition issue, nor that they should necessarily make a political address, in the ordinary acceptation of that term, but for the purpose of this campaign the bureau does not wish to recommend any speakers who will give their adherence to the old liquor crime parties, or who will not make it an especial point to urge their audiences to seal their condemnation of the liquor traffic by their votes."

One of these circulars was sent to G. M. Bigelow, a well known prohibitionist of Newberry, Mich., and Mr. Bigelow's reply is so happy and so forcible that the Post gladly avails itself of the writer's permission to publish it. It reads as follows:

"Your circular of August 18th, asking whether I am prepared to give my hearty support both by voice and vote to the platform and candidates of the national prohibition party and the union party of Michigan, is at hand.

In reply I am a prohibitionist. My voice and my vote and my prayers are for that cause. I allow no party to control me, but use the best judgment God has given me for the advancement of good government and the cause of right. But that judgment compels me to answer emphatically, 'No,' to your question.

"I find that the only advantages ever obtained by the cause of prohibition have been obtained through the republican, not the prohibition party.

"Two years ago I saw the prohibition party working hand in hand with the saloon men for the success of the democratic ticket, and spending their effort not for prohibition but to blacken the character of the republican candidate. I saw them defeating men pledged to submit a prohibition amendment and thereby rendering such submission impossible.

"I look at the prohibition platform and while I endorse part of it I cannot endorse woman suffrage or some other points. I look at the political situation and I see two great parties opposed to each other, one of which must succeed. By voting for the prohibition ticket I should be voting to elect the democratic ticket, which I would consider a national calamity. The democratic party is the champion of the saloon, the sympathizer with rebellion and the oppression in the south, with its free trade principles the menace to the business and laboring interests of the nation, with its hungry office seekers who would throw the whole machinery of government into confusion, is the great danger we must meet to-day. I look at the candidates and the republican candidates in state and nation meet my approval as men in whom I have confidence and in whose care the cause of temperance will be safe. Mr. Cleveland's moral character (believing no more than his friends admit) and his declared opposition to prohibition render his defeat of the first importance.

"In view of these facts my principles demand that in the present campaign I support the republican ticket and platform."—Detroit Post.

The Irish Revolt.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Congressman Finerty, of this city, in an article in his paper Citizen, this week, says that without surrendering a principle that he has held, without accepting any party collar, without abandoning the people who elected him on the ground of American citizenship and American glory, he declares his preference for Blaine. He declares against Cleveland because he has proved himself the enemy of the working man, the ally of monopolists, the self constituted judge of the constitutionality of measures intended to benefit the people, the fast faced dodger of the vital question of protection to American industries and the champion of foreign interest on this continent.

Mr. Finerty says he will never be found voting for any dubious American who has the support of the Times, the Telegraph, the Standard and the News of London. He supports Blaine because in declaring openly for protection against Europe and free commerce with American neighbors on and below our southern frontier he advocates that true American policy, and the only one, by which this country can not only remain great, free and prosperous, but also by which she can spread her influence on the two vast continents and maintain the letter of that Monroe doctrine which says to Europe "Hands off," and of which Blaine is the truest and most gifted living exponent. With him at the head of the nation there would be no fear that the Panama Canal should degenerate into a European waterway.

Mr. Finerty further supports Blaine because of his vigorous foreign policy that the tragical end of President Garfield curbed before it had attained development. He also supports Blaine because England abhors him, and because his election, although he is not a fire brand or a promoter of unnecessary warfare, would be a slap in her face. Finally Mr. Finerty declares against Grover Cleveland because his nomination by the democrats was a direct insult and so intended to the backbone of the democratic party north of the Ohio and a challenge to the manhood and the political courage of every American of whatever race who earns his livelihood by honest labor.—Philadelphia Press.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER
To All Wanting Employment.

We want live, energetic and capable agents in every county in the United States and Canada to sell a patent article of great merit on its merits. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent. profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "extraordinary offer" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, above all expenses can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub agents for ninety days, and fail to clear at least $750 above all expenses can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully and these we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will loose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

The water works muddle at Brad continues to furnish the press of that city plenty of material with which to their papers.

The juveniles got all ready last Sat to play the third and deciding game with the Bradford club, but for some reason they failed to materialize and no game was played.

The personal property of the Brad which was sold at sheriff's sale last Monday for $350. A. Leo Weil was the purchaser for creditors. It is doubtful whether this concern ever starts up again.

The Genesee Valley Post of a recent date gives a very flattering account of an entertainment given by the young people of Wellsville, N. Y. W. B. Shepard, one of our town boys, being the chief actor.

The Texas Siftings says the pro reminds it of the fellow turning the handle of a peanut-roaster, to whom the granger said after waiting some time impatiently, "why the don't you play something?"

It is said that Huff & Ege of the de Bradford Exchange bank are cir a paper among their creditors, to receive as a settlement forty five cents on the dollar. creditors have signed the agreement.

The new skating rink will be duly opened to the public with a grand floor to-morrow night. There will be an excursion on the narrow gauge from and town people generally. The band will music for the occasion and a good time is guaranteed.

N. M. Orr, of Bradford is now trying the Butler campaign in that city. the young man who has tried to law in Duke Centre, Smethport, Clarendon, Warren, Bradford and almost every town in this section without unbounded success attending his efforts. He may be successful in his new role of running the greenback organization, but if so it will be his first master stroke of political management in this neck of woods.

St. Luke's Church.

Divine services on Sunday next at 8 a. m., (holy communion);—at 10:30 a. m., and at 7:30 p. m.

The Rev. D. R. Wilson of Bradford will preach at the evening service.

Bishop Whitehead will visit St. Luke's parish on Sunday evening, 28th inst., and administer confirmation.

New Skating Rink.

The new roller skating rink will be opened to the public on Saturday evening, September 20th. There will be exhibitions of fancy skating, also music by the Smethport band. Lovers of skating will find a splendid floor, and first class accommodations throughout. Good order will be enforced.

General admission for the grand opening, 25 cents.

H. C. Parsons,
Manager.

Not Intended.

Unconsciously we offended several of our lady readers last week, who we think were over sensitive about a matter which had no reference whatever to any of them. We stated that on the excursion the other day, a young lady of democratic proclivities heard a woman vote for Cleveland and say she was not ashamed of it. The young lady said she was ashamed for her. We are now authorized to give the name of Miss Ellen Oviatt, as the young lady who heard the remark, and the woman who was not ashamed to vote for Cleveland was an entire stranger to her and she thanks to this section of country. Miss Ovatt is a young lady of excellent character, and her word will not be questioned by those who know her best.

For confectionary go to the Bakery.

Gone Wrong.

Considerable excitement was occasioned last week by the arrest of A. L. Hughes, recent book keeper for the Allegany Gas Co., limited, upon the charge of grand larceny. There were many stories afloat as to the "true inwardness" of the cause, but the facts in the case, procured from reliable sources, are plainly that said Hughes made collections and failed to give credits for the same. In short, it is said, he pocketed nearly one hundred dollars of the company's money. In default of the necessary bail ($500) he was taken to Angelica Saturday to await the action of the grand jury. As near as we can learn, Mr. Hughes has heretofore held responsible positions of trust and always properly conducted himself.—Friendship Register.

Eldred Bank Robbery.

One of the most daring robberies that ever took place in this section of the country occurred at Eldred one week ago yesterday. Shortly after the closing hour the cashier Pat O. Heasley and the clerk, A. R. Sloan, were putting away the money which lay piled up on the counter when Heasley heard a sharp click at his ear and turning around saw a man leveling a revolver at his head!

"Hands up" was the command of the burglar, which was at once obeyed. He then went to the counter and rolled up the bills and loose change, put it in his pocket and backed out into the directors room where he escaped through the window. The cashier and clerk were so completely paralyzed with fear that they did not sound an alarm until too late to apprehend the robber.

Suspicion at first pointed to one "Black Tom" or Thomas McKeown, but later developments have proved that it was not him. Up to the present writing no trace or clue has been found that will lead to the villians discovery. The robber secured about $2500.

Miss Lena Belle, of Fredonia, N. Y., is visiting her uncle, Mr. F. M. Blodgett, of this place.

B. F. Wright and A. H. Pierce of this place attended the soldiers re-union at Du Bois last week.

Rev. W. B. Wagoner, of Rushford, N. Y., former pastor of the M. E. church of this place was in town the first of the week.

Mrs. S. Mandeville, who has been spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Milliken, left for Olean last Monday.

Hon. W. W. Brown, our candidate for congress addressed the young republicans of Williamsport last night, and to-night he speaks in Jersey Shore.

DIED.

MARTIN.—At his residence near Clermont, on the 11th inst., of cholera morbus, John Martin, aged [illegible] years.

Mr. Martin was born at Teutonia, formerly a German settlement on the hill just south of the present site of Clermont, on the 4th day of April, 1847. He was a son of John Martin, who died a few years ago, and a nephew of Adam Martin, now living on his farm in Sergeant township, who were two of the original members of the Teutonia settlement. The deceased was married on the 11th of September, 1878, to Lena Hafner just six years before the date of his death. He leaves a wife and two children, a boy and girl, to mourn his untimely loss. John Martin inherited the characteristic traits of his father's family, which in the highest sense represents strict integrity, the conscientious discharge of every duty, and the christian maxim of "doing unto others as you would have others do unto you." His death is mourned by a large circle of friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. Heber McCandless, the masonic fraternity of which Mr. Martin was a consistent member, taking charge of the burial obsequies. Mrs. Martin desires us to express her sincere thanks for the kindness shown her during her great affliction by the masonic fraternity and friends generally.

—Col. Snowden speaks in Warren on Tuesday evening next.

—New York state papers now teem with notices of county fairs.

—The numerous friends of Frank Kerns will be glad to learn that he is rapidly regaining his health, at his old home in Carlisle, Penna.

—John H. Nelson and wife of Mt. Jewett, have just returned from a visit to their old home in Sweden, where they have been for several months past.

—C. L. Wheeler, Esq., of Bradford, was elected President of the State Volunteer Firemen's Association of Penn'a for the ensuing year, at the annual meeting of the Association in York, Pa., last week. An admirable selection.

—The Larrabee pole broke but it didn't kill a republican voter. On the other hand, the democrats commenced cutting their vote down where they need them most. In raising a democratic pole at Knightstville, Ind., last Saturday, the ropes gave out and the derrick fell, killing two democrats instantly and fatally wounding a third.

BLAINE AND LOGAN MEETINGS.

TO NIGHT

The Central Blaine and Logan club of this place will be addressed by N. B. Smiley esq., of Bradford. Do not fail to hear this eloquent gentleman as his remarks will be of interest to every one.

TO MORROW (SATURDAY)

Afternoon the republicans of Larrabee and vicinity propose to raise the pole which they attempted to raise last Saturday but were unable to accomplish on account of not being supplied with the proper appliances. But now every preparation has been made and it will go up sure. A free train will be run from this place leaving at 2:30 and returning at 6:00 p. m. Speeches will be made by E. R. Mayo, of Eldred, W. J. Milliken, of this place, and others.

MONDAY EVENING

The republicans of McKean county will assemble in mass meeting in Orpheus Hall, Bradford, to listen to the eloquent orator, COL. A. LOUDEN SNOWDEN of Philadelphia. Col. Snowden is one of the ablest political speakers in the state, and every voter who can be there should not fail to hear him discuss the questions which are agitating the public mind just now. There will be a GRAND TORCH LIGHT PARADE from seven to eight o'clock. Promptly at eight o'clock the meeting will be organized. All railroads entering the city will carry passengers to and from the meeting at half rates. The train from Smethport on the B. B. & K. road will leave at 6:00 p. m.

TUESDAY EVENING

The republicans of Kane and vicinity will be addressed by Col. Brady, of Bradford, Mr. Rose, of Smethport, and others.

EVERYBODY will attend the grand opening of the new skating rink, Saturday evening.

Baptist Church.

Rev. F. H. Gates will preach at the Hamlin school house, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

For teas and coffees go to the Bakery.

Methodist and Baptist Churches.

Union services will be held at the M. E. church next Sunday. Sermon by Rev. Hubbell in the morning, and Rev. Gates in the evening.

—A young lady of town had a watery experience while horse back riding the other day. She was crossing Potato creek, and in the middle of the stream the horse concluded he would take a bath. He laid down and the rider slid off and paddled to the bank of the stream as best she could. It is an old trick of the Colonel's horses, all they want is the opportunity.

Fresh oysters, at the Bakery, by the dish or measure. 35—tf.

—On Wednesday morning last, at 2:30 a. m., the St. Elmo hotel of Eldred, one of the largest in the county, was discovered to be afire. An alarm was given but before the fire department could get to work the fire had gained too much headway to be extinguished. No other buildings were burned although several were pretty severely scorched. Loss about $5,000.

Do not forget the grand opening of the new skating rink Saturday evening.

OYSTERS by the dish—raw, stewed, or fried—at the Bakery.

—The fire parade which took place at Bolivar yesterday was a grand success in every particular. The Bolivar boys spared neither pains or expense to make it a red letter day for visiting companies and they succeeded grandly.

—The front of the stub on Main street, which is to be occupied by Miss Rowena King, is unique and shows good taste on the part of the designer. It looks very much as though the father of the young lady had something to say about it.

TRY the new skating rink and see how you like it. Grand opening Saturday evening, Sept. 20th.

—Under Dan Forsyth's bossing George Brownell is doing a pretty good job in laying a plank walk front of his store. Nothing like having a first class boss.

—Is that democratic pole over in East Smethport good for yet? Miss Allen, walk into the witness stand.

For lunches go to the Bakery.

Court Proclamation.

The Hon. ARTHUR G. OLMSTED, President Judge, and the Hons. HENRY HAMLIN and P. M. FULLER, Associate Judges of the courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Orphans' Court and Court of Common Pleas for the county of McKean, have issued their precept, bearing date the Monday, June 2, 1884, and to me directed, for holding a Court of Oyer and Terminer and Jail Delivery, Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Orphans' Court, and Court of Common Pleas, in the Borough of Smethport, on Monday, the [illegible] day of October, A. D. 1884, and to continue one week.

Notice is therefore hereby given to Coroners, Justices of the Peace and Constables, within the county that they be then and there in their proper persons at [illegible] o'clock of said day, with their rolls, records, inquisitions, examinations and other remembrances, to do those things which to their offices appertain to be done. And to those who are bound by their recognizances to prosecute the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of said county of McKean are to be then and there to prosecute against them as will be just.

Dated at Smethport, this Sept. 15th, 1884, and the 108th year of the Independence of the United States of America.

A. I. WILCOX, Sheriff.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you,

SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh,

CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results. Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

SCROFULA

Usually develops in early life, and is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, thickening of the lips, enlarged neck, sore eyes. A scrofulous condition is often hereditary, but bad diet, too free use of fat meats, bad air, want of sunshine and nourishing food will induce it. Some people are troubled with scrofulous swelling of the glands, and with ulcers and kernels, which may cause very little pain; others may have inward scrofula, scrofula of the lungs, scrofula of the spleen, scrofula of the kidneys, and scrofula of the bones. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will drive away any case of scrofula and not to appear in another place, for their action on the blood and bowels will carry the disease entirely from the body.

THE MOUNTAIN'S BROW.

[D. G. Carpenter.]

So hard, so bitter seemed the world to me,
I longed but from its contact to be free.
"Who are the hermits," cried I in my grief;
"They know the only way to find relief!
Death would be sweet, but since Fruits [illegible]
its stay
And grope on 'mid the shades, we must obey.
Yet will I leave the world behind, and now
Sun my despair upon the mountain's brow."

Beneath my feet the [illegible] mountain
[illegible]
Over my head the forest monarchs [illegible],
Kissed my [illegible], the thick woods passed,
Gain I the sparse growths of the heights at last.
Then my heart [illegible]. Whence doth the world and how,
Show us such beauty as from mountain's
brow?

I sat and [illegible] upon the view beneath
Gray peaks, green woods and purple lengths of heath;
Steals there upon my fretted soul a calm, [illegible]
The mountain winds blow blessed breaths of balm.
"Men are not bad," I cry, "I am the knave,
I, [illegible] selfishness and [illegible] a slave.
I will be better [illegible] I vow.
I will be better," on the mountain's brow.

When thou art sad, when earth seems cold and drear,
Yield not to sorrow till thou standest here;
Here thou shalt find thy bitter grief assuaged,
Here wonder at the poor fight thou hast waged!
Here find thy soul so sweetly comforted [illegible] rising from the dead
As harbor-ward turneth the weary prow,
Departing [illegible] with the mountain's
brow.

FINGER-NAILS AND PENMANSHIP.

How the Handwriting Corresponds with the Shape of the Nails.

[Harper's Bazar.]

Since the new science of reading character by the handwriting has come in, it is evident that the care taken of the nails affects the handwriting. The long, almond-shaped nail is a great support to the middle finger, which guides the pen. One can hardly imagine a person with short, stubby finger nails which are covered with sore, writing the long, graceful English hand which so delights the recipient of a note from a grande dame.

It is said that poets and people with imaginations are apt to have long taper fingers and beautiful finger-nails. They have a handwriting in which the long up-strokes and down-strokes cut into the lines above and beneath them. The heads of their capital letters are large. This handwriting shows ardor or impulse. When it has a markedly downward movement, this handwriting shows a tendency to melancholy. An aptitude for criticism is shown amongst people who bite their nails. They are cynical and severe, uncharitable and bitter. They write a small, cramped and illegible hand. However they may be good-natured critics, men with versatility of comprehension. They would have small but well shaped nails, and their handwriting would be somewhat angular, showing penetration and finesse.

The nails of a musician are of course to be observed, although the piano sometimes injures them. The great musicians have a sloping handwriting. There is, however, an eccentricity peculiar to the handwriting of executive musicians, as witnessed in that of Beethoven. The finger-nails of mathematicians are apt to be square and not beautiful. Handwriting of such persons shows a spiteful movement of the pen. The lines are straight with the paper, the up-strokes and the down-strokes are short, while the capitals are small and angular. Diplomacy has a long, supple hand and a long, beautifully kept slender finger-nail. But the handwriting of a diplomatist is not apt to be clear; it always looks like a snake gliding away. There are no clear, angular capitals like John Hancock's, none of the fine curves suggestive of generosity and expansion; all is compressed and impenetrable. Certain inflexible natures express themselves both by finger nails and by the handwriting; both are blunt and determined.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

[Philadelphia Call.]

Little Dick: How can you tell true stories from fairy stories?

Little Nell: Why, that's easy. Fairy stories always begin "Once upon a time."

Little Dick: Yes, but some true stories begin that way. I've got a book of [illegible] stories that does.

Little Nell: Oh, now I know. It ain't the beginning, but the end that you must look to.

Little Dick: How do you know it isn't true by looking at the end?

Little Nell: Because in fairy stories the people who get married always "live happy ever after."

Edison's Electric Railroad.

Mr. Edison, the electrician, chatting with a reporter in New York the other day said: "I have built a railroad three miles long at Menlo park, on which I run at the rate of forty-two miles an hour my electric engine and carried six or eight freight cars. It is a real, practical thing. I could not go on with it because I had no time. I had too many other things to attend to, especially in connection with electrical lighting. I am going into my experiments again. I'll get out a new crop of inventions during the next year in the electrical line."

Missed It a Little.

In 1791 Benjamin Franklin made the city of Boston the trustee of a fund of 1,000 pounds sterling to be lent to young mechanics, calculating that in 1891 the fund would amount to $582,000. His figures must have been faulty, however, for the fund now only amounts to $291,000.

Twice Read.

[Arkansaw Traveler.]

A Chicago gentleman, in imitation of Hawthorne, has issued a volume which he terms "Twice Read Tales." Yes, by compositor and then by the proof reader.

Thoreau: The youth gets together his materials to build a bridge to the moon, or, perchance, a palace or temple on the earth; at length the middle-aged man concludes to build a woodshed with them.

The Advance: The habit of stinginess is easily and quickly formed.

It is better that we are not informed than to be misinformed.

Unity: Truth is a plant indigenous to all natures, but one requiring considerable digging about and watering to thrive well in any.

Lime Kiln Club: Green watermelons fill a person up and make a saving of sweet cake and pie, but don't gnaw the rinds too close.

From The Bloody Ground.

Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co.—I keep the largest stock of medicines of any store in Lewis county, with the exception of a drug store at Vanceburg, our county seat, and am selling a great deal of Peruna. It is giving the best satisfaction of any medicine I ever handled. In one case, our constable for this precinct, has been very sick and low spirited for a long time. For several years he has tried all the doctors here, and we have some good ones, but they did no good. After much persuasion I sold him two bottles Peruna. He took half of the medicine. I could see a great change in him, and now he is as sound a man apparently as there is in this vicinity, and he says he is entirely well. He is a number one man, and is highly respected. He is satisfied that your medicine saved his life, after all the doctors and all medicines had failed. Being unacquainted with you, I refer you to John Shillito & Co., Alter, Pinck and Co., and other business houses of Cincinnati. H. L. Gillespie, P. M.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism.

Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave. J. W. Morey, Buffalo, Oct. 1, 1881.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring.

I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it."—A Workingman.

Mrs. Davidson, of Eldred, says: "Your Great Blood and Liver Cure is curing my hands by using your Balm of Gilead Salve at the same time, of Salt Rheum."

Mrs. E. McKeough, Duke Centre, Pa., says: "Your remedies are doing for me more than anything that I have ever used for general debility and kidney trouble." The Great American Panacea for all purposes required in ointment to be superior to all other pain killing agents, by all persons using it. Price 25 cents. Sold and manufactured by G. T. Mr. Dana, in contrasting Messrs. Tilden and Cleveland, calls them "the man of brains and the man of beef." That exceeds in severity anything that has yet been spoken of the ex-sheriff and is ten times more cutting than anything the Sun man ever said of Hancock. —Lancaster New Era.

Medicine For Children

Must not only be effective but so compounded that no harm will result from the use. Such a preparation for a complaint to which almost every child is subject is Parmelee's Santonine Worm Candies, which are made from the best drugs, particularly adapted for this use. They work quickly, surely and harmlessly, passing off the worms after they are dissolved. Do not neglect the children even though they do not complain. Worms are almost always present. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by Armstrong and McCoy.

A Boston girl never speaks of the "naked truth." She refers to it as "truth divested of apparel."

Half Out of His Head

"I am used to the hard [illegible] sleep [illegible] gratitude [illegible] excellent invention?" "Nervousness [illegible]" writes Mr. William Coleman, the well known wholesale druggist of Buffalo, N. Y. "I could not sleep and my nights were either passed in that sort of restless [illegible] or in a kind of stupor, haunted by tormenting dreams. Having taken PARKER'S TONIC for other troubles, I tried it for this, and was both surprised and delighted. My nerves were toned to concert pitch, and [illegible] sleep [illegible] the Tonic [illegible] perfect rest on [illegible] the use of the Tonic thoroughly re-established my health. I have used Parker's Tonic with entire success for sea-sickness and for the bowel disorders incident to ocean voyages."

This preparation has heretofore been known as Parker's Ginger Tonic. Hereafter it will be advertised and sold under the name of Parker's Tonic, omitting the word "ginger." Hiscox & Co. are induced to make this change by the action of unprincipled dealers who have for years deceived their customers by substituting inferior preparations under the name of ginger. We drop the misleading word all the more willingly, as ginger is an unimportant flavoring ingredient in our Tonic.

Please remember that no change has been, or will be, made in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of Parker's Ginger Tonic, contain the genuine medicine if the facsimile signature of Hiscox & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

"The Honorable Sisterhood of Old Maids" is one of Tuckhannock's most thriving associations.

Please Remember.

Do not forget that life is worth every effort that is put forth for its preservation, and no matter what the disease or ailment you should not give up to the fell destroyer without making every effort in your power to counteract its advances, and to regain your health and strength. Yes, please remember that Dr. S. B. Hartman, of Pittsburg, has discovered a remedy called peruna, which, although not warranted to cure every disease incident to this climate and humanity in general, yet it has performed some cures which were almost miraculous in their nature. Peruna is composed of the purest ingredients, and no mineral poison is allowed to enter into it under any consideration, and hence it is always a sure and safe remedy. Give it a trial, and you will like it.

One of the Invalids.

E. M. Parmelee, Dear Sir:—I have been taking your Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver cure for some time past and have received more benefit from it than from all of the $500 worth of doctor's medicines that I have used in the last few years. Before taking the cure I was weak and tired out all the time but now I can work all day without fatigue. Would not be without it in the house. Believe it is one of the best medicines in the world.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, can be cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects result from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Circulars and testimonials sent free. Address, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

To Repair Damages.

Dear Lady, there is probably no use telling you that fashionable life in a great city is rough on your beauty. Late hours, loss of sleep and mental excitement will leave you by and by shorn of those beautiful tresses which drew lovers around you in other years. Artificial substitutes can never pass for those rich and glossy locks. Parker's Hair Balsam will stop your hair from falling out, restore its natural color and softness, and prove cleansing and beneficial to the scalp.

Almost Marvelous

The way Parmelee's Blood Purifier works upon the human system. It is such a thorough Purifier, it strikes at the root of the disease and by its perfect workings effects a cure almost before the patient is aware. It seizes on every particle of poisonous matter in the system, expels it and instills new health and vigor through the entire body. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Armstrong and McCoy.

D. Langell's Asthma and Catarrh Remedy.

Having struggled 20 years between life and death with ASTHMA or PHTHISIC, treated by eminent physicians and receiving no benefit, I was compelled, during the last five years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath; my sufferings were beyond description. In despair I experimented on myself by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered this WONDERFUL CURE for ASTHMA and CATARRH, warranted to relieve the most stubborn case of ASTHMA IN FIVE MINUTES, so the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Any person not fully satisfied after using one-third of a box, can return the remainder to the proprietor and the money will be refunded, or send me your address for a trial package FREE OF CHARGE. Mrs. W. T. Brown, Monroe, Texas, writes: "I suffered with Asthma 20 years. Your Great Remedy completely cured me. I wish all afflicted with Asthma and Catarrh to send for it. Publish this for the benefit of the afflicted." Should your druggist not keep the Remedy, I can send it by mail on receipt of price $1.00. For sale by all druggists. Address
